Parker is recognized as the richest, as well as the most influential native Hawalian of the islands. He has been known as one of those advisers in whom the ex-Queen placed the most confidence, and his loyalty to her interests has never been questioned. This lends greater weight, therefore, to his positive declaration that he has given positive declaration that he has given up all hope of any restoration of the monarchy, and is heartly in favor of nnexation. Parker said that the intelligent people there, natives as well as foreigners, are anxiously looking forward to the consummation of annexa-

"Although up to this time," he said, "I have not publicly expressed my sentiments on the question, after due consideration I have concluded that annexation pure and simple, would be a blessing to our islands. Of course, as a Hawalian, I should have liked to as a Hawaiian, I should have liked to see the Queen restored, but as this now appears impossible, I wish to put my-self on record as an annexationist. 'Take the better classes of Ha-waiians, especially the property-own-

Influ-ences have been used at the islands to make the natives believe the restoration of their Queen can be brought about, and petitions have been circulated asking the United States Congress to act in that direction. They believe that the Queen will be restored to them, and for that reason do not take the oath of allegiance to support Now, while many have signed suc

"Our greatest interest in Hawalians that they should not lapse into that condition which they were in a hunred years before Christianity was inroduced into the islands. We are not inxious to recruit soldiers from fifty r sixty thousand people here. We are not anxious to secure your land. We are anxious only for one thing—to secure you from aggression from for-

In this instance the countries would have been grand accessions, but we declined their offers because we considered them able to work out their own des tinies. Germany, France or Great Britain, and my opinion is that the only salvation for the Hawaiian Islands is in annexation to the United States. The 75,000. 000 people n the United States are not going to permit foreign aggression in these islands. There have been four offers of this country to the United States, but until Hawaii became a republic we could not consider one of them. I shall take pleasure in informing my colleagues in the Sen-ate of what I have seen here; of the fertility of the soil of these islands; the intelligence and physique of their inhabtants, and also of their evident desire to continue in the merch. desire to continue in the march of progress, and to impress upon them the joy I shall feel if we can clasp your hands as brothers of that great country to which we belong."

AKIYAMA'S CHAGRIN.

Recalled from Hawaii, the Council-lor Tries to Kill Himself.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The Japan Mail of September 22 has the following account of the attempted sulcide of Councillor Akiyama, the news the steamship China today:

"Mr. Akiyama, a Councillor of the Foreign Office, who was sent to Ha-waii in connection with the emigratrouble, and who left Honolulu for Japan on July 24, has been in a melancholy frame of mind ever-since his return to Tokio. Nothing calcu-lated to weigh upon his spirits had occurred, so far as the public knows, during his stay in Hawaii. He seems have discharged his mission there in a perfectly satisfactory manner, and the agreement with reference to arbiration had been concluded before he left Honolulu. Still, from the time of his return, it was evident that h had some cause of chagrin.

left Honolulu. Still, from the time of-his return, it was evident that he had some cause of chagrin.

"At 2 o'clock on the 20th, he went away from the Foreign Office, saying that he felf unwell, and on reaching home, he complained of suffering, and retired to lie down, having first partaken of some tea prepared by his mother. About half an hour later, a member of the household entered his room and found him bathed in blood. A sword about three feet long was grasped in his right hand, and several severe wounds were visible in his neck and stomach. He was almost unconscious, but owing to the difficulty of using a weapon of such dength for suicidal purposes, according to the orthodox Japanese fashion, he had failed to inflict mortal injuries.

"It would seem that when he plunged the sword into his stomach and attempted to draw it across, the impossibility of guiding it correctly resulted in its glancing upward against the ribs on the left side, and although an effort was made to change the direction to the right, the enfeebling effect of the first cut rendered his efforts unavailing. The wound in the stomach was eight inches long and two inches deep, and a wound in the throat was two inches long and seventenths of an inch deep.

"When Mr. Akiyama's mother raised his head and asked him what had induced him to take such a course, he made no answer, but managed to let it be understood that he did not wish to have medical aid. A physician was soon on the spot, however, and the wounds were treated, that in the stomach requiring fifty stitches. It is understood to be the doctor's opinion that if no complications ensue, a fatal result need not be apprehended.

"The almost invariable custom with a Japanese who contemplates suicide is to leave a written statement of his reasons for the act, but nothing of this kind has been found in Mr. Akiyama's case, and it is, of course, idle to speculate on the motives by which he was influenced. Possibly the simple explanation is mental derangement, but naturally there is a dispositio

Prosecution Rests Its Case Afte More Damaging Testimony.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 .- The evidence o the prosecution in the trial of Adolph Luetgert is now before the jury. The State rested its case this afternoon. The closing testimony was of the same impeaching character that marked the evidence on the preceding day.

Prof. George Dorsey had his innings during the afternoon session of the court, and he made matters unpleasantly warm for Dr. Allport. Prof. Dor. sey could have talked for hours upon the subject of osteology, but the proseoution confined him to matters tending to contradict and refute the state-ments made by Dr. Allport, the chief expert for the defense.

Then Judge Arthur H. Chetlain was called to the stand to add the finishing touch to the impeachment of Mary Siemmering. She told Judge Chetlain so he testified, that she had not been mistreated at the police station, and that she had gone to the East Chicago avenue Police Station voluntarily, as she knew she would soon be discharged Owing to this statement of facts.

Judge Chetlain dismissed the petition and the young woman returned to the Mary Siemmering, who declared while on the witness stand that she was subjected to indignities at the hands of Inspector Schaack, Capt. Schuettler and other policemen.

Angelica Schrader, a nurse who was a member of Luetgert's household for three months, said that the missing woman was a most affectionate mother. A sensation was created in the courtroom when a woman attired in mourning garb ascended the witness stand and held up her hand to be sworn. There were tears in her eyes as she sank into the witness chair. The woman was Mrs. Wilhelmina Miller, a sister of Mrs. Luetgert. So firmly impressed is she that Mrs. Luetgert is dead that some weeks ago she donned mourning in memory of her sister.

Mrs. Miller testified, while her eyes were fixed upon the face of Luetgert. The big sausage-maker returned the gaze coolly. Mrs. Miller told of the kindly discretized.

were fixed upon the face of Luetgert. The big sausage-maker returned the gaze coolly. Mrs. Miller told of the kindly disposition of her sister, and asserted that no mother was more patient or kind to her children.

Next Monday, ex-Judge Vincent announced, sur-rebuttal evidence will be put on. The defense will undertake the unusual task of impeaching a judge. A witness will be called to testify in sur-rebuttal to Judge Chetlain's evidence as to Mary Siemmering's statement to him. This witness will be a newspaper reporter, who is said to have heard the young woman's state-went.

A policeman was called to rebut the testimony of those who identified the women seen at Kenosha as Mrs. Luetgert, and a number of experts were called to superort Prof. Dorsey's theory of the bones introduced by the prosecution. Nevertheless, al-though I can rely upon the absolute unconditional support of the autonomist and constitutional parties, as well as upon public opinion, this would be insufficient without the confidence of the government. This confidence would be necessary to enable me to put an end to the war, which has already been virtually concluded from our lines at Señor Sagasta replied: "I thank you for your explanation, and value frankness. I wish to assure you that the government recognizes your services and values them as they deserve, but it thinks a change of pol-icy, in order to succeed, requires that the authorities should be at one with the ministry. Abandoned-Rescue.

IBY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.-[Special Dispatch.] Fourteen more of the crew of the wrecked whaling steamer Navarch have escaped death in the Arctic seas. The news of their safety was rought to port by whaling schoone Bonanza, which arrived this evening from Point Barrow with a cargo of Arctic products, and in her forecastle one of the fourteen rescued sailors, Enos N. Diaz, third mate of the wrecked vessel. He had to be assisted ashore, and though the best of care had been given him on the voyage, he was still weak and suffering intensely from exposure, and hardships he had undergone. His vocal cords are para-lyzed, and it was with the greatest difficulty he could tell the story of the shipwreck and of his twelve days on the drifting icebergs and his rescue The Navarch was pinched in i Diaz related, and in a few minutes after she was caught she was so crushed that her bottom was almost like kindling wood. The captain had his wife with him, and she and her husband and the first and fourth mates were given the smallest and lightest oat to drag over the ice to the edge of the jam, so that they could make shore and seek assistance for the rest of the crew. They were over a week in lragging the boat over the ice, and times they returned to several times they returned to the ship for shelter from the fierce storms.

ship for shelter from the fierce storms. The first that arose lasted nearly a week. It was bitter cold, and in the gale the ice on which the shivering men were camped surged under them and threatened to break. Several of the sailors died during that storm from exposure. Several others attempted to reach the edge of the floe in the hope of making their way to land or of attracting the attention of some vessel which might be passing. They fell through cracks in the ice field and were drowned. The storm continued almost a week, and the men who remained had given up all hope of rescue, and were even happy in the thought of death.

"We were all lying in the shelter of a hummock of ice waiting for death," said Dlaz, "when the ice was thrown about violently. It appeared as though it had been caught by ocean currents, and ice floes that before seemed to be one solid mass began to grind and crunch against each other. Those of us who still had some strength took the crunch against each other. Those of us who still had some strength took the only boat left and dragged it to the center of a huge floe. There we stood beside it waiting for the ice pack to Slowly the men dragged their boat to water. By the time they reached it there were only fourteen left to em-bark. Some who had helped in the start to move the boat toward the water had dropped on the way, and there they were left. ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The fate of the crew of the steam whaler Na-varch of New Bedford, which was varch of New Bedford, which was wrecked in the Arctic August 11, is no longer in doubt. As is already known, the captain, his wife, and the first and fourth officers, who succeeded in escaping from the vessel after she was caught in the ice, were picked up by the United States revenue cutter Bear. The other thirty men on board the ill-fated vessel were supposed to have pershed.

The news of the death of fourteen of these men and the rescue of the other sixteen was brought to this city today by E. M. Diaz, one of the survivors, who came down on the steam whaler Bonanza, from Point Barrow. Diaz is a Portuguese. He relates a harrowing tale of suffering and starvation in the ice-bound North. After the Navarch had been nipped by the icebergs and the captain, his wife and the two officers had been fortunate enough to reach open water in the gig, the others stayed by their vessel as long as possible. The food way rapidly became exhausted, when of the men died, and finally had vessel went to pieces and sank.

The sixteen survivors tried to make their way south over the ice, but soon found themselves adrift on a fice. For twelve days they drifted with the ocean currents, suffering the most intense torture from hunger. They were reduced to the verge of starvation, and in their craving for food, ate the skins with which they were clothed.

Finally, after all hope of rescue had been abandoned, the castaways were sighted by the steam whaler Thrasher and quickly rescued. They were taken to Point Barrow and given every care and attention. Diaz was brought to this city on the Bonaza, so that his eyes might be treated by a oculist, his sight having been seriously affected by the gleam of the sun on the ice. He was the third mate of the vessel.

Voluntary intoxication is held, in Harris vs. United States (D. C. App.) (36 L.R.A. 465,) to be neither an excuse nor a palliation for the crime of murder. In a note to this case the great number of authorities are compiled on the question, "What intoxication will excuse orime?"

The fact that a train was running at high speed in violation of law and in breach of the promise of the engineer made to a boy who intended to jump off is held, in Howell vs. Illinois Central Railroad Company (Miss.) (36 L. R.A. 545,) insufficient to render the railroad company liable for injury to the boy, when he attempted to get off knowing the danger.

The power of a City Council to order The power of a City Council to order the destruction of all intoxicating liquors in the city, and pledge the faith of the city to pay for them in anticipation of riot, lawlessness, and mob, as on the evacuation of Richmond, in April, 1865, is denied, in Wallace vs. Richmond (Va.) (36 L.R.A. 554,) overruling the prior decision in that State, which had been followed by the Supreme Court of the United States in another case growing out of similar facts.

The fact that a woman injured in a railway car was stunned, and after re-covering consciousness was still das-and nervous when a release of damsigned by her without reading, is held. in Och vs. Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway Company (Mo.) Those Chinese Merchants.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The steamer China today brought 217 Chinese men, of whom 147 have San Francisco marked on their papers as their destination. This beats the big list of the Doric last week by ten. Since the 1st of April, 735 "merchants" have arrived here from Hongkong, Canton and Macao. The Chinese business directory, issued last February, shows that there were at that time 410 merchants in Chinatown. Since then fully 15 per cent, of the stores in that portion of the city have been vacated. Yet most of the Chinese now seeking admission claim to be merchants.

Shortly before the City of Para left San José, ten days ago, a conference of the American, English and French Consuls was held, as the result of which they waited upon President Barrios and asked for information as to the use which he proposed to make of the steamer City of Panama, informing him that it was currently rumored that he intended to leave the country. Barrios stated that he proposed to use the vessel for the transportation of troops, and had no intention of aban-

On September 29 Morales issued a proclamation throughout the city of scape, in the hope of avoiding further bloodshed, but the City of Para sailed public.

Consul-General Carrillo today received a dispatch to the effect that the revolution was at an end, and that Barrios was again in complete control of the situation, which was confirmed later on by several private cables to prominent business men who have large interests in Guatemala. Isidor Schwartz of the firm of Schwartz Bros., the mercantile agents of the Guatemalan government, in an interview, said:

lution in Guatemala was led by Damuel Fuentes, brother-in-law of Gen. Barrios, and not Prospero Morales, as the world has been made to believe. Fuentes was the father of the revolution, but hustled Morales to the front as his commanding officer. I have always argued the better classes were behind argued the better classes were behind Barrios, and with a well-organized and otherwise superior military force the President has not been long in putting to rout his political enemies. The rainy condition of the roads caused much time to be consumed in reach-ing Morales's army, but when he did meet it, Morales retired, as he has just done at Quezaltenango.

"I regard Barrios's victory as a most complete one, and predict that peace will be entirely restored within a very few days, for the majority of the peo-ple are for peace, and are satisfid with the Barrios administration, notwith-standing all reports to the contrary that have been received here."

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Annie Solomon, otherwise known as Mrs. Lindenbaum, Mrs. Shawl and Mrs. Crosby, had an unpleasant quarter of an hour in Judge Coffey's court today while contesting an application by the officers of the local Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children for letters of guardianship for two of her children.

It was shown that in 1885 the woman

It was shown that in 1885 the woman deserted her first husband, Nathan Lindenbaum, and accompanied one Aaron Shawl to Seattle. By him she had two children. Three years later, Lindenbaum obtained a divorce from her. She continued to live with Shawl until July last, when she eloped with Fred L. Crosby, to whom she was married at Stockton by a justice of the peace.

married at Stockton by a justice of the peace.

Her marital affairs would probably have been unheard of, had she not sued Shawl for $600, which she claimed to be due for services rendered. This morning, she found herself upon the horns of a dilemma, for when questioned as to her relations with Shawl, for the purpose of showing that she was not a proper person to have the custody of the two children, she was confronted with the choice of two evils. If she swore that she had married Shawl, she would not only lose her suit for the $600 alleged to be due for services, but would also be endangering her liberty by admitting that she had committed bigamy. On the other hand, by denying such a marriage, she would brand her children with illegitimacy.

After hesftating for some time, she finally chose the latter course, and Judge Coffey thereupon continued the matter for further hearing until Monary record.

The decision is affirmative of the Superior Court of San Diego county, in which a man named V. E. Shaw won a case against the San Diego Water Company. The suit was brought to enjoin the company from shutting off and refusing to supply Shaw with water. He had been paying the "family rate" as required by the ordinance, but the water company put in a meter, making a difference of about $7 a month. The user refused to pay for water used as indicates by the meter, but offered to pay the regular "family rate." The water company refused the amount, and threatened to shut off the water unless the additional amount was forthcoming.

The Supreme Court interprets the ordinance as being faulty, but says that the water company has not the power to collect for more water than is allowed under the "family rate." The court, in deciding in Shaw's favor, says: "The water company cannot, by attaching meters, or otherwise, impose upon consumers rates neither authorized by the ordinance nor assented to by the consumer."

OAKLAND, Oct. 8.—Miss Mary C. Israel, aged 20 years, a stenographer and accountant who attempted suicide yesterday, was today declared insane as the result of overstudy, and sent to the Napa asylum. Bartender's Wife Inhales Gas

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Anna Irving, the wife of a bartender, committed suicide by inhaling gas this morning at No. 118 Grant avenue. Ill-health was the cause. BOOTH AND BEER.

The Night Clerk of the Abbottsfore Inn Arrested.

Al Booth, a well-dressed young man who occupied the position of night clerk at the Abbottsford Inn, corner of Eighth and Hope streets, spent last night in the City Prison. According to the story of J. F. Tarble, proprietor of the Inn, young Booth has a predilec-tion to drinks intoxicating. When Booth became intoxicated Thursday night with beer taken from the icechest belonging to the Inn, Tarble discharged him. But Booth wouldn't accept the decree. He insisted upon reappearing for work. He did so last night, and proceeded to crack a few bottles of beer as evidence of his supremacy. Tarble called for the patrol wagon and had Booth arrested on a charge of drunkenness. When Booth reached the Police Station his abundance of ardor had somewhat abated, and he requested that he be allowed to sleep outside of the bars. But again his motion was overruled by a policeman, and Booth occupied a hammock in one of the cells. chest belonging to the Inn. Tarble dis

AATE OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES, SS.
Personally appeared before me, Harry handler, superintendent of circulation for the Times-Mirror Company, who, being duly worn, deposes and says that the daily bona de editions of The Times for each day of the sek ended September 25, 1897, were as fol-

132,170

NOTE.—THE TIMES is a seven-day paper. The above aggregate, viz., 132,170 copies, issued by us during the seven days of the past week, would, if apportioned on the basis of a six-day evening paper, give a daily average circulation for each week-day of 22,028 copies.

THE TIMES is the only Los An geles paper which has regularly published sworn statements of its circulation, both gross and net, the past several years. Advertisers have the right to know the NET CIRCULATION of the medium which seeks their business, and this THE TIMES gives them correctly, from time to time; and it furthermore THE TIMES regularly exceeds the combined circulation of all other Los Angeles daily newspapers.

.. THE SECOND DAY..

'Twas a Brilliant Ovation

Of all the following testimonials that we have enjoyed at the hands of the people there has been nothing in our remarkable history that can be compared to the out-pouring and big rush that was at BROWN BROS.' STORE the last two days. It seemed as if all Southern California had made up their minds to take advantage of our High-Class Sale of the Very Best Clothing obtainable. Today will be the banner day of this as all our stock has been marked down to tiny prices. We propose to end this Money-Saving Sale in a blaze of glory.

JUST OPENED

New arrivals in Men's Suits and Overcoats. New winter colorings, which makes the stock brighter than ever. Those swell plaids for Business Suits, in neat Scotches, all-wool fabrics, so neat and pretty. Worsteds in the hairline order, of that pretty stylish cut that makes one look so neat and nobby. Those heavy Twill Serges, in blue and black, that are so fascinating. Very large assortment of Overcoats, in Meltons, Kerseys and Cheviots, in blue, black and tan shades. NO SURPLUS OF SILVER DOLLARS.

United States Treasury Depart ment has issued an order suspending the practice of exchanging standard dollars for gold. The reason given is that there are now more silver certificates and treasury notes of 1890 (Sherman notes) outstanding than ere are silver dollars in the treasury Silver half dollars, however, will be exchanged for gold, as heretofore, and it is anticipated that the effect of the order will be to put large to the creation of a nuisance?

What is the City Council going to

The present state of things has shie, and the people of the city who do not own horsen, as well as many who do, demand that they shall be given the right-of-way along the pub-lie thoroughtares. A man who owns a horse and vehicle has no more right to block the street than a crowd of men have to block the sidewalk, and as much a part of the highway as the sidewalks, and anything that tends to retard free passage along it is a nuisance that should be removed.

Business men in Los Angeles compian that they are not able to drive their own teams to the curb in front of their places of business once a month, on an average, and that their customers are compelled to dismount from their carriages in the middle of the street in order to reach the stores and shope. This is an outrage upon not. At least 50 per cent. of the teams are compelled, because of all the available space being occupied, to it is first come, first served, in which of course, in a matter of this sort, there is neither sense nor reason. All good citizens should understand that they have no more right to turn the public street into a livery stable than they have to build reside stores in it-this point is so clear that it does not merit discussion, but that public streets of Los Angeles every day in the year; yet just why a mar not clear at all. Of course they have no such right, either in equity or for use as highways, for the traffic of all the people, on foot, on horseback, highway to pasture a horse on it is an interioper, who should be com-pelled to remove the nuisance, or be fined for his refusal.

The City Council must sooner or later take this matter up and afford relief, and that body can do no more popular or proper thing than by passing the necessary non-hitching of any class who are so constitute that they think they have rights above some other class. Gentlemen of the Council, give us a hitching or

Some of the anti-administration or gans, which had little or nothing to land regime-when monthly deficite were accepted as a matter of course are saying a great deal just now about the "failure" of the Dingley law to produce a surplus. mart, how families have been impov-erished by it, how men have had their nerves literally wrenched from their bodies by its cruel and relentless grip, and how reason has been driven from active and alert brains by the con-stant hammering of the devil of greed, he may agree that Martha Morton, has neither overdrawn the picture nor set its scenes amid too broad dashes of color.

Elisha Cunningham, as played by Mr. Crane, is what the boys on 'change would cail "a devlish good American and a nervy operator." He goes over to Europe with his dashing and ambitious daughter, to be sure, and comes back with an accent that has a tendency to drive his fellow-citizens to hard drink, and a wardrobe, fresh from the sartorial establishments of "dear oid Lunnon," that would frighten a flock of bicycles, but Cunningham is too good an American to have the dual compiaint of accent and loud clothes "strike in on him," and he still remains the clear-headed, strong-willed, servy speculator, until Powers, the big operator, plays a Jay Gould trick on him and smashes him in a deal in sunset Railroad stocks, along with a group of trusting friends who get caught in the same gigantic pinch. There is an air of realism in all this that makes it true to nature, if there is any such thing as nature in Wall street, for that Monte Carlo of business is riotous with tales of Just such schemes as is played against the firm of Cunningham & Lloyd by the schemes as is played against the firm of Cunningham & Lloyd by the schemes as is played against the firm of Cunningham & Lloyd by the scheme as is played against the firm of Cunningham & Lloyd by the scheme as is played against the firm of Cunningham would have it, fallen off the tight rope and not lit on his feet. Therefore "A Fool of Portune" is a good strong play, for it accomplishes what one William Shakespeare said was quite the proper thing in the dramatic line: "holds the mirror and sives the uninitie."

Yankee with a heart in him as hig as an ox.

Boyd Putnam made a meat engaging Karl Worresdorf. He looks and acts the part close up to the line of perfection. Miss Lesters Mrs. Cunningham was well sustained, and the Jennie Cunningham of Francis Stevens was charmingly breesy and picturesque. Percy Brooke as the nervous Nathaniel Lloyd, made a strong impression, and the play throughout was up to a very high standard. Its sad and gloomy ending is a feature not likely to make the play popular with all theatergoers, but it is strongly dramatic and contains the element of the pathetic in full measure.

"A Fool of Fortune" may be seen

Broadway Company. Every bit of delicious absurdity is given its true-value, and when that is done with "The Arabian Nights" it is a good show. It is hard to imagine dainty Sarah Truax as the Gutta Percha, Girl, and that she does it so well is a striking instance of her versatility. It is not one of her best parts, but the only sense of disappointment borne in by that fact is that Sarah Truax has so many little prettinesses of speech and manner that are given no chance to appear, rather than that anything is lacking in the dashing Rosa Colombier. The same is true of Charles Hallock in Joshua Gillibrand. Joshua is such an elaborate, iridescent fool, and Hallock puts such an extra polish on his asininity, that the audience sits and giggles helplessly at every fresh idiocy, and yet has a lurking desire to punch his head for doing it with such evident relish. With H. D. Blakemore the case is different. As Arthur Hummingtop, Blakemore is distinctly a round peg in a round hole. He does not act the part so much as he is the part, and from start to finish that luckless prevaricator who possesses such a talent for getting into scrapes, is the part, and from start to minst that luckless prevaricator who possesses such a talent for getting into scrapes, is a source of holy and unmitigated joy. Nan Mifflin, as Mrs. Gillibrand, is also in her element as the incarnation of all the mother-in-law jokes ever perpetrated in the funny papers. Her make-up would cause horses to shy. but it the mother-in-law jokes ever perpetrated in the funny papers. Her makeup would cause horses to shy, but it has its effect on Hummingtop—also on the audience. Ralph Ormerod is necessarily a mere buffer between Hummingtop and his loathed relative by marriage, but Guy Bates Post contrives to get a good deal of fun out of him notwithstanding, and makes him a species of bridge between the guile of the Gutta Percha Girl and the perplexity of Hummingtop, and the Arcadian simplicity of Mrs. Hummingtop and Dalsy Maitland. It is hard to make the part of an ingenue in a farce anything more than mere padding, but these two innocents abroad and at home are so well done by Helen Henry and Marie Blossom that they form a harmonious part of the intensely funny whole. The curtain-lifter is that pretty little war story, "The Picture," a bit of sentiment to precede the uproarious fun of the piece itself. Charles Hallock and Sarah Truax are at their best in the characters of Maj. Strong and Alice Willoughby, and picture forth the lovely scrap of comedy in a way that catches and holds the sympathy of the audience. Harry F. Adams, as

It was one of the largest assemblages of Shriners ever seen in California, as, in addition to the members of Al Malaikah Temple, visiting Nobles were present from San Francisco and other portions of the State and from numberous cases in the East. Islam Temple of San Francisco and El Zaribah of Phoenix, Ariz. were particularly well represented, and assisted very materially in the work of transforming the novices into Nobles. The only room of the many commodious halls in the temple capable of accommodating the gathering was the auditorium on the first floor, which had been fitted up and was utilized for the occasion. The Nobles, with their bright red fezes and shining claws, made a striking picture. The total number in attendance was setimated at 475. monopoly of enjoyment, their ladies were entertained during the evening at a theater party given by Los Angeles Court Daughters of Isis, at the Los Angeles Theater, the entire party occupying about two hundred seats in the body of the house. The party met at the pariors of the Holienbeck and proceeded to the theater in a body in charge of a committee composed of Mmes. Charles Campbell, J. R. Paul and T. P. Hill and the Misses Marley. That the visiting Knights Templars and ladies are enjoying their visit to this city goes without asying. The special excursion train on the Kiteshaped track contained about three hundred people, and departed from the city about the advertised time. Stops were made at Rediands and Riverside, where committees of Knights Templars of those cities treated the excursionists to carriage drives about those cities. The party returned to the city at about 6 p.m., and after a brief rest a majority of the Knights, who are Shriners, attended the ceremonies of Al Malaikah Temple, while others visited South Gate Lodge, No. 239. F. and A.M., where the Master Mason degree was conferred. Others attended the theater in company with the Daughters of isis.

This morning a special train will leave the Arcade Depot at 9 o'clock for an excursion to Catalina Island, where arrangements have been made for an entertaining time. The excursion will return to this city Sunday morning, and many of the visitors will depart for their respective homes that day, while others will remain and participate in numerous short excursions to Mt. Lowe and other places.

"The common phenomena of the sun lifting by its invisible powers the waters of the seas into the higher atmosphere, and drifting winds pushing their burden of moisture to the high mountains and hills; the falling rains, the renewed rivulets and streams, the ertilized meadows and fields through which they run back again to their resting place in the sea—these phenomena rise in my mind as fairly typical of the series of phenomena which receive their visible expression here today.

Los Angeles is an "oasis" flowing with many things even better than milk and honey, if the rakish angles assumed by many scarlet fezzes last night was any reliable indication.

Definite plans for the permanent ex hibit of home products are at last as suming- shape, and the first days of 1898 will probably see Los Angeles in possession of another free exhibit hall with which to paralyze the hapless tourist from the frozen East.

The Coroner exercised his preroga tive yesterday and caused a San Pedro jury to edit its verdict to read so it ething, instead of saying what meant nothing. A coroner's jury is too prone to shirk the responsibility of a definite expression of opinion.

Business men of Los Angeles are be ing solicited to advertise in a publica-tion devoted to home products which is said to be issued under the sanction of the Manufacturers' and Merchants ciation. Officials of that association desire it to be known that no such cation has received in lorsement

U.S.A., of San Francisco is visiting the city, and yes-terday went with the Knights Temp-lars on the Kite-shaped-track excurcion. Col. John R. Berry received a telegram from Capt. Carrington at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon directing him to call out the men for inspection

The order was obeyed as soldiers do obey, and when the train reached here at $:30 o'clock the three companies, each forty men strong, under command of Maj. D. R. Weller, were awaiting Capt. Carrington's arrival on Seventh street between Broadway and Spring. Gen. C. F. A. Last accompanied the inspecting officer.

The men made a good showing, especially when the short time allowed them is considered, as many of the guardsmen were not notified of the inspection until late.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The St. James Gazette this afternoon, referring to the formal announcement of Great Britain's declination to take part in the Bering Sea conference to which Russia and Japan might be parties, says: "There will be a feeling of relief that Great Britain, in behalf of Canada, has finally declined to walk into the trap which was being arranged at Washington. America has never paid indemnities for the illegal seisure of Canadian sealing vessels, and has exhausted every diplomatic artifice to evade the award, finally demanding a fresh conference. The Marquis of Salisbury consented, whereupon America proposed that Russia and Japan should have seats at the conference with the obvious intention of outvoting. England and upsetting, by a side wind, the Paris award."

The Globe, commenting on the same with the obvious intention of outvoting. England and upsetting, by a side wind, the Paris award."

The Globe, commenting on the same matter of business it is time that a firm check be put upon the policy of the United States in dealing with this country. There is no cause to adopt the theory that the Marquis of Salisbury almost regretfully refuses to participate. In the interest of Canada it is well to let the United States understand that no settlement of the question will satisfy Great Britain which sacrifices one jot of tittle of the just and equilable rights of the loyal Dominion of Canada."

DETECTIVES ON THE CASE HAVE A GOOD CLEW.

President Ripley and Party of the Santa Fe to Arrive Today-Will Investigate the Bakersfield

Extension.

Two attempts have been made during the past week to wreck the Southern Pacific overland at the little station of Highgrove, near Riverside. Both were unsuccessful, and detectives are nov on the trail of the miscreant who at-tempted the dastardly crimes.

On Tuesday night last the engineer of train No. 338 was pulling out of High-grove when he discovered a cross-tie laid across the rails. Fortunately the train was not under full headway, and by the prompt use of the air brakes it was stopped within a few feet of the obstruction. It was found that the tie was not fastened to the rails, and even had the engineer been unable to stop in time, it is probable the pilot of the engine would have thrown the tie clear of the track. Some of the most disasof the track. Some of the most disastrous wrecks in the history of railroading, however, have been caused by placing a tie on the rails, and when the Southern Pacific officials were notified of the attempt at train-wrecking, they at once ordered the company's detectives to the scene.

The officers had hardly got to work when the second attempt to wreck train No. 338 near the same place was reported. The last attempt was made on Thursday night. This time the train was under full headway, but the engineer, who knew of the first attempt, was keeping a sharp lookout, and just after he left Highgrove, discovered that a heavy coupling link had been placed on the rails and presumably fastened.

It was too late to stop the train, but fortunately the engine and cars passed over the link without further damage than a general shaking-up of the engineer and the men in the forward cars of the train. Word was sent to the detectives, and they at once returned to the scene of the second attempted wrecking.

Officers of the Southern Pacific say they believe that the attempts at trainwrecking were the work of a young man who was recently released from the reform school at Whittier. What the object of this person was in trying to wreck the trains if he be the guilty party, the officials do not pretend to say, but the detectives believe that he took the chances of killing scores of people out of pure deviltry. The idea of robbery as the motive is scouted by all parties interested in bringing the would-be wrecker to justice. They say that had the trains been wrecked, the most the wrecker, or wreckers, as the case may be, could hope for, would be a chance to rob dead or wounded passengers, and they would be taking desperate chances to attempt that, as, if they were caught in the act by the people on the train who escaped uninjured, conviction would be almost certain.

Assistant Superintendent Prior said last night that it was not unusual for children to be guilty of placing obstructions on the track, and sometimes they would place obstructions sufficiently large to endanger the safety of a train if not discovered in time to slow up or stop, but he added that the persistent attempts to wreck the through express near Riverside were evidently not the work of children too young to realize the consequences of their ac

Some time this afternoon a specia rain composed of the private car of E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fé Railway system, and those of several directors, will arrive at Le Grande Station, in this city. The official special was due here yesterday, but President Ripley and his narry are evidents.

The Ninth Ward has a candidate for Councilmanic honors in the person of Julius Dickhoff of Boyle Heights, This important piece of political information cropped out during the trial of Dickhoff in the Police Court the other day, for disturbing the peace. Dickhoff is an eccentric German, who, despite his gray hairs, was accused by some of his neighbors of taking undue liberties with little girls, conducting a "blind pig," and other disorderly acts. The charges were not fully sustained and the court let the defendant off with a light fine.

During his examination an interpreter of the German language had to be employed. While the District Attorney's attention was temporarily engrossed by some other matter, Deputy Constable Brakesuhler requested Interpreter Oakley to ask the defendant whether he was not a Demogratic candidate for the City Council from the Ninth Ward.

"Ja, ich bin," was the prompt reply.

TO END HIS PAIN.

August Ernette Threw Himself Under a Train. Because he considered himself too old and infirm to be of any use to himself or any one else, August Ernette threw himself under a moving passenge in the Southern Pacific yards at River in the Southern Pacific yards at River Station yesterday morning. The wheels of the rear truck passed over his chest diagonally, crushing the bones in his body ahd breaking his lower jaw. Death resulted instantly.

Sheridan Vincent, a coal-heaver in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company, was an eye-witness of the tragedy. Vincent says he saw Ernette walking along the track and watching a train of passenger coaches that were being switched. Vincent supposed that the man was a tramp who was looking for a chance to steal a ride. Instead of that, the fellow deliberately threw himself under one of the moving coaches and had his life crushed out. The train was moving slowly at the time, and did not run more than ten or fifteen feet after passing over Ernette's bedy. The coarineer and firmers were and the train the coarse of the coarse of the passing over Ernette's bedy. The coarineer and firmers were a supposed to the passing over Ernette's bedy. teen feet after passing over Ernette's body. The engineer and firemen were not aware of the occurrence before Vin-body. The engineer and firemen were not aware of the occurrence before Vincent told them what he saw.

The body was sent to Orr & Hines's morgue where an inquest was to have been held yesterday evening, but it was postponed on account of the absence of the Coroner, who had two other inquests on hand out of town.

Ernette was a native of Lorraine, 57 years of age, and broken down in health and fortune. He was formerly employed as a floor-sweeper in a Second-street drug store. He was afficted with neuralgia, and used morphine to quiet the pain. Three or four days ago he was admitted to the County Hospital. The attendants there say he was very despondent, and spoke several times of committing suicide as the easiest way out of his troubles. Yesterday morning he got permission to go into the city after his overcoat. He went, instead, to the Southern Pacific Raliroad yards, where he watched the men switching cars for a while, then deliberately committed suicide.

Ernette had no relatives in this country, but two brothers are said to survive him in Lorraine.

LISSNER & CO., JEWELERS, SILVERSMITHS, OPTICIANS, 235 SOUTH SPRING ST.

A GLANCE OVER THE FIELD. O ACCUSTOMED have we be come to regard Southern California as a health and pleasure resort—as a section of beautiful omes—that comparatively few, even of our best-informed citizens, realize the vast strides that have been made

ing made from day to day, in the ma terial development of this peerless section of the United States. So short is the time that has elapsed since Los Angeles was a somnolent, unambitious pueblo, surrounded by semi-arid stock ranges, that even the close observer is often unable to grasp the full significance of the marvelous modern wonderland during the past dozen years. Within that period, throughout the seven Southern counties, and in the neighboring Territory of Arizona, great ranches have been subdivided into productive homes; water on the thirsty land, or to furnish power and light to cities in the valleys below; precious metals have been dug from the bowels of the earth; electric and steam railroads have annihilated distance, and the local manufacturing industry has become an actuality, instead of an iridescen noting the inauguration of some enof the town a decade ago, but which is now taken as a matter of course. We are growing so fast that we do not realize the progress we are making. It icle on this page news and facts about numerous notable enterprises set on foot or in progress in the domain of material improvement throughout this outhwestern section of the country, of which Los Angeles is the commercia netropolis. Our desire and purpose is to hold up the hands and stimulate the minds and hearts of the men of achievement who are engaged in the great work of making the city and dereloping the country—the pioneers of the Greater Los Angeles that is to be, who are "building wiser than they

Electric Power.

Electric Power,

The Southern California Power Company of Rediands has contracted with Fairchild & Glimore of Los Angeles for the completion of the tunnel, flume and ditch which they are constructing in the Santa Ana Cafion, for the purpose of generating electrical power for Los Angeles and other Southern California cities and towns. The work includes two and one-half miles of rock tunnel and three miles of flume and dijch work. It is the most important enterprise of this kind now under way in Southern California. The contract was originally let to parties who failed in the undertaking.

The company has at present under way 11,000 feet of tunnel and about two miles of flume and ditch. The comton and San Bernardino with electricity for lighting and power purposes, and claims to have secured contracts in Los Angeles amounting to $150,000 per annum. It is expected that the power will be ready for use in this city in about three months.

The contract was given to Messrs. Fairchild and Glimore on a basis of paying them a percentage on the actual cost of construction.

Artistic Metal Work.

N INTERESTING development of A local manufacturing is being car-ried on by Meyberg Broa, in the south Main street. Here they are turning out a large amount of artistic wrought-iron and brass work, such as was formerly all imported from the East, and most of which is still brought here from the outside. Some fine specimens of iron, beaten into the most delicate floral and other designs, are being prepared for an Algerian residence, now under course of construction in Pasadena by Mrs. Eva Fenyes; also large iron grills to cover the windows of this residence. The firm also has under construction some fine brass grill work for the First National Bank. This hank ordered some brass work from the East, but when it arrived it was so inferior that it was not accepted, and the job was given to Meyherg Bros.

There are twenty-three men simployed in this factory, including a noted artist in iron work from Vienya. Altogether, about seventy persons are supported from this one industry, concerning which little is known by our people. turning out a large amount of artistic Utilizing Asphaltum.

There are other uses for asphaltum besides the paving of streets. In the early days of Los Angeles, the roofs of the houses were generally smeared with brea, or asphaltum, which was hauled in from the ranch of that name in the Cahuenga Valley. An enterprise has recently been started in Los Angeles which has for its object the manufacture of asphalt roofing. It is called the "Ready Rock Asphalt Roofing Company." This roofing is made of the highest grade of California rock asphalt, 80 per cent. fine, thoroughly saturating and covering a heavy Calcutta burlap. To this is backed a firm, rosinsized paper. The surface is covered with carefully-acreened quarts gravel, rolled under pressure, thus making a uniform appearance. This asphalt contains no petroleum, and will not melt under 250 degrees of heat, thus insuring a strong and impervious fabric, practically indestructible, and fire proof.

The company has a large manufacturing plant in Los Angeles, from which the trade will be supplied as far north as British Columbia, and as far south as Texas. George W. Ludiow is president and treasurer of the company. Among recent Los Angeles customers are the Pacific Coast Pipe Works, the Ice and Cold Storage Company, the Southern California Railway Company, and Harper, Reynolds & Co.

Fruit Preserving.

THERE is still much room for an extension of the industry of drying, canning and otherwise pre-perving the fruits and vegetables raised in this section. A new enterprise of this description has been organized, under the name of the Southern Califor-nia Preserving Company, for the purnia Preserving Company, for the pur-pose of manufacturing dried and pre-served fruits. The incorporators are August Hauber, George E. Stearns, Frank F. Davis, Helen M. Davis, all of Los Angeles, and Charles B. Davis of Gardena. The stock of the company is $30,000, of which all but $100 is sub-scribed by Mr. Hauber.

Dried Fruit for Germany.

A s ONE good result of the display of dried fruits made by California in the Hamburg exposition, Loud & Gerling shipped eight carloads of dried fruit to Hamburg, and are now preparing to send on four carloads of dried pears.

Another Permanent Exposition, M EYBERG BROS. large store on Main street, between First and Second, known as the Crystal Second, known as the Crystal Palace, has been rented by the directors of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, and will be used for a permanent exposition of home products. The store extends all the way from Main street to Los Angeles street. There will be a double row of tall pillars, with a fourteen-foot alley between, the various exhibits being placed beyond and behind the pillars. Max Meyberg has evolved another idea in connection with this exposition. At the Los Angeles street end of the building he proposes to have a room in which grocerymen and other dealers may meet every morning to deal directly with farmers, who drive into the city with their produce.

A Big Winery.

S ECUNDO GUASTI of Los Angeles, who has been for fifteen years in the wine business, is said to do the largest trade of any individual manufacturer of wine on this Coast. His plant covers two acres of ground, he has fifty men employed at present, and will handle about 3000 tons of grapes this season.

An Electric Bakery.

ARL SATTLER of East Los Angeles has a bakery in which the machinery is all run by an electric motor. The bakery is in the rear of his residence and store. He works up ten barrels of flour a day, and keeps a dozen people husy.

A Smelter.

A COLORADO man, who does not wish his name mentioned recently told a prominent citizen of Los Angeles that he was ready to invest a million dollars in a smelter in this neighborhood as soon as work on the breakwater at San Pedro shall be companied. A million dollars looks like a breakwater at San Pedro shall be commenced. A million dollars looks like a big sum of money to put into a smelter, but there are smelter companies in this country which are capitalized at $2,000.000 and over. It is not only for the plant that capital is needed, but to purchase and store ores of various grades, until a sufficient quantity of a particular variety shall have been accumulated.

This, however, is not considered the full extent of the power of the waves, for it is known that rocks weighing from six to fifteen tons have been displaced almost seventy feet in a horizontal direction.

Mr. Wright, the patentee of this invention, may be found at the works to explain technicalities to those who are interested.

Sugar Beets at Buena Park.

BUENA PARK, on the Southern Pa-cific Railroad, or Northam Station, as it is called on the Santa Fé Rail-road, is situated in the center of a large body of land suitable for sugar beets. This industry has been carried on there for quite a number of years past, and as good sugar beets as are grown anywhere in Southern California, or, in fact, in the world, have been strayer there. have been grown there in large quantities. With proper factory facilities ten times as many can be put in he market at any time.

From Buena Park Station,

Upon inquiry, Mr. Erkenbrecher said: "While there's life there's soap, and there has been more business in it the last two months than in six months before. We would have to run night and day for a month to catch up with the demand.

"Soap is made up of several things. In its manufacture we use hard water, caustic soda, tallow, resin, cocoanut oil, starch, perfumery, ammonia, turpentine, naphtha, aicohol, coal oil, sait, cottonseed oil. linseed oil, pearl ash, borax, soda, and other things."

"What else?"

"Hard water to fit the soap for the local market, where hard water is the rule. We bored a well to save a water bill of $100 or more a month, and got the hardest alkali water around here, and in this the Lord was good to us. Caustic soda we use to cut the tallow; perfumery is used in laundry soaps, to drown the unpleasant natural odor; in toilet soaps to get a better; alcohol, to make the soap transparent; coal oil to cut grease; sait to cut cut the fatty acids and other things, for body and efficiency in various ways. The mixture is put in these kettles and cooked by steam for four days; these two kettles are for resin soap and are twenty feet deep and nine feet across, and hold $500 pounds each; those two smaller ones are for toilet soaps, and have a capacity of $600 pounds. Resin soap when cooked is dark and must be run through this crutcher:" (the crutcher looks like a combination of a puddling machine and a sigantic egg making collision in a sometic misses of the state of the

We manufacturers will naturally make the best goods we can but we cannot influence public opinion except slowly, inch by Inch. The education of the people lies in the province of the newspaper, and used in this direction will benefit the entire community with this principle of a protective tariff locally applied,"

Los Angeles Salt Works.

A CCORDING to the Pasadena News, the Pasadena Packing Company has paid out during the past two months over $6000 to Pasadena laborers. The company has packed over 200,000 cans of fruit this season. It is mostly shipped east in carload lots, twenty-four cans in a case, and about 400 cases in a car. The bulk of the pack is

San Diego Guano Trade,

San Diego developing quite an industry in the gathering and shipment of guano. Some of this business has been carried on hitherto by poachers. Small boats, of from ten to twenty tons capacity, which scour the Pacific Coast of Lower California and the adjacent islands, bring in cargoes at irregular intervals, but larger ves-sels go further down the coast or into the gulf, and transact their business regularly through the Mexican customhouses at Guaymas or Magdalens

Bay. The San Diego Union of recent date

The San Diego Union of recent date says:

"The most enterprising of the local guano men, thus far, are Beermaker, Robbins & Co. They secure their guano from Magdalena Bay, the Gulf and from Sonora proper. They have secured large deposits of bat guano from a point inland from Guaymas, and Mr. Beermaker is there now, attending to shipments of the stuff. He says he will eventually send 1000 tons per month to Riverside, via San Pedro. He would ship through the port of San Diego, but for the fact that he gets better railroad rates from San Pedro to Riverside, than from San Diego.

"The firm received word yesterday from Capt. Fred Carter of the schooner McPherson that the schooner sailed yesterday from Magdalena Bay for this port with 150 tons of a superior quality of guano, gathered at that port and its vicinity. The schooner Lou, Capt. Forrest, and the schooner Alta. Capt Nielsen, sailed for the south yesterday for guano cargoes for the same firm. All the guano coast is inside the concession of J. W. Kishlar of Riverside, who controls it under contract with the Mexican Land and Colonization Company, the original concessionaires."

Flourishing Escondido.

A CCORDING to Mayor Steiner of Escondido, that is one of the most flourishing towns in San Diego county. Escondido is the center of one of the few successful irrigation districts of the State. A New Mexico Paradise.

A Mexican gives an interesting de-scription of the rich San Juan district of New Mexico, which appears to be equally noted for its old ruins and its fine farms. Numerous four-horse teams carry the fruit of this district to the nearest railroad station, Durango, from hearest railroad station, Durango, from fifty-five to 115 miles away. Among the fruits raised in the valley are apples, peaches, pears, nectarines, apriects, persimmons, prunes, plums, almonds and berries. It is said that one ten-acre apple orchard will yield 300,000 pounds of fruit, while 160 nine-year-old pear trees will yield 45,000 pounds. Alfalfa grows luxuriantly, and corn yields from forty to fifty-five bushels per acre. The honey output is large. There are natural gas wells in the valley; also an abundance of fine coal, which is sold at from 85 cents to $1 per ton.

The great need of the San Juan district is a railroad.

Fine Almonds,

T IS only ten years ago since the Antelope Valley was regarded as a postion of the great Mojave Desert. Then it was discovered that fine wheat could be raised there. Later it was found that the section along the west end of the valley was particularly well adapted to the culture of that delicate adapted to the culture of that delicate tree, the almond. In fact, wild almonds are found growing there. During the past four or five years a number of orchards have been set out, but not much progress has been made in settlement, because most of the men who went there were poor. One man with capital and energy has gone into the almond-growing business in the Antelope Valley on a businessilke scale. This is A. R. Sprague of Palmdale, who is connected with a Chicago firm. Mr. Sprague recently sent some of his almonds to Chicago to be tested, and it was found that they gave the remarkable percentage of 58 per cent. of oil. They were pronounced by a Chicago firm as the finest almonds which they had ever handled. There are now about three thousand acres planted to almonds in the Antelope Valley. tree, the almond. county, which will involve the expenditure of over half a million dollars, and will give them the finest asphalt plant in the world. The Alcatraz asplant in the world. The Alcatraz asphalt has been extensively used in eastern cities, and has often been exported to Europe. The company has recently purchased from Fairchild & Gilmore the interest of that firm in the Alcatraz Asphalt Paving Company of Los Angeles, agreeing to give to the firm the agency for all the territory west of the Missouri River in which to make contracts.

To Make Citric Acid, S EVERAL months ago reference was made in The Times to a project of two eastern men who came here for the purpose of establishing a citris acid factory. After examining various sites, they chose a location at North Ontario, where they have built a factory which will be have built a factory, which will be open for business within a few weeks. Arrangements have been made with the local packing-houses to use all their the local packing-nouses to use at their cull lemens. According to an Ontario paper, the price to be paid for these cull lemons is about one-quarter cent per pound, or 18 cents per box, which is so much gain to the grower. It is expected that cull lemons will be shipped in from all parts of Southern California.

Olive Oil.

DH. M'EWEN of Pomena, formerly a lumberman of Chicago, recently purchased the Howland olive or-chard and mill at Pomona. He intends to discard the entire outfit and make extensive improvements, turning out a product which he believes will find a ready sale throughout the country. He will have a special bottle manufac-tured for him. Mr. McEwen reports that a Chicago firm, which ordered 5000 cases of California olive oil last year, told him that if he could put up 5000 cases this year they would take It all.

Beans. Santa Barbara Herald tells how the Lima Bean Association has handled the crop of Santa Bar-a and Ventura counties. Quoting a apokesman for the association, it says: task the association has accomplished, be said that on June 1, 1896, that being the date when the previous year's crop is supposed to be sold and delivered. there remained in the two counties of bags as a surplus.

"The next year this surplus not only remained, but in June, 1897, was added to to the extent of 180,000 bags, making a total on that date of 283,000 bags. a total on that date of server base. This enermous quantity the association went to work to dispose of, and the amount now on hand is only $0,000 hags, of which the association owns but a pairty 14,000. This has been accomplished largely by pushing the limas in now markets where they were before unknown.

new inaracts where they were before unknown.

"The export trade, especially to Gergannount, and taken carre of a large amount, and by the hardest kind of work and energy the two years' accumulation was gotten rid of. As many farmers do not wish to berrow on their crops, the association will now stand ready to take a half of any member's crop at $2 per hundred weight, the remainder to be pooled. This will undoubtedly solve the problem. Limas are now bringing $2.16 in the open market.

"Although the acreage was decreased this year by about 1200, the decrease was invariably accomplished by not planting the worst land, and the average yield per acre will, therefore, be heavy. In Ventura the thrashing is not yet going on, but in and about Satisfy the hot weather has dried out the means and thrashing is under way, with a heavy yield as a result. He roughly estimated this year's crop at about $600 carleads or 270,000 bags."

The company has twenty-five men on its pay roll at the quarries, and several have contracts in sight. The worklarge contracts in sight. An Automatic Accountant, H J. WEEKS, a Santa Barbara genius, has invented an "automatic accountant," which the Press of that city thus describes:

"Briefly put, the invention saves all the work of ordinary book-keeping between the making out of the check by the sales cierk, and the making out of the statement by the book-keeper. In other words, the day book keeper. In other words, the day book and ledger are rendered entirely un-necessary. The 'machine.' which is of the size of the ordinary office desk, answers the purpose of desk, alphabeti-cal index, day book, ledger and slip depository.

cal index, day book, ledger and slip depository.

The book-keeper's work under this system consists in simply transferring the items from the checks to a pad of paged and alphabetically-arranged statements and the depositing of the slips into the pigcon-holes in the machine, or desk.

"As these statements are written in copying pencil, they are ready for delivery at any day during the month after having been copied into a press copy book identically arranged and paged with the machine and statements.

"As this system saves the work of Two men out of every three, the patentee confidently predicts that it will in a very short time supersede all the old styles of book-keeping by books, which are not only expensive, but complex and generally unsatisfactory."

PHYSICAL CULTURE. Close of the '96 Season at the Y.M.

On last evening the final entertainment given by the Young Men's Christian Association for the season of 1896-7 was presented to an enthusiastic audience. Long before the opening hour the balcony and running track were filled. Promptly at 8 the physical director, E. R. Yundt, presented the leading features of the work as carried out by the association. He said ried out by the association. DEED FORGERY CASE.

Davis, Compton and Ware on Trial

in Department One.

The trial of A. E. Davis, W. M. Warg and Charles Compton for forging the name of L. H. Greene to a deed to let 1 in the Daly tract, came up before Judge Smith and a jury in Department One yesterday and will continue today. The story of the crime, as told in the complaint, is as follows: Compton and Ware drew up a deed to the prop-erty in question, to which one or the other forged the name of L. H. Greene, who was afterward taken into the transaction. A mortgage was issued by Davis, who succeeded in obtaining $1000 upon it at the Columbia Savings Bank. During this time, Greene, the owner of the property, was ignorant of what was going on, and did not learn of the transaction until several days after the money had been paid by the bank to Davis, the alleged purchaser.

Defect Discovered in the Original Advertisement-Another Exhibi-tion of Hoggishness by the Southern Pacific-The Proposed

As anticipated, there is every prospect that the fire-hose contract will not be awarded in accordance with the recommendation of the Fire Commissioners. The bids were referred by the Council to the Fire Commissioners and the Supply Committee, jointly, and and the Supply Committee, jointly, and last Saturday evening the commissioners agreed to recommend that the contract should be divided among four of the bidders. This conclusion gave rise to much dissatisfaction, as it was said that undue favor had been shown to firms manufacturing their hose outside of the State. The Supply Committee did not concur in the recommendation made by the Fire Commissioners. It has now transpired that owing to a defect in the original advertisement for bids, it will probably be necessary to readvertise. Section 3247 of the Political Code, passed by the last Legislature, requires that advertisements for bids for State and municipal supplies shall contain a clause to the effect that, quality and price being equal, home manufacturers shall be preferred. In advertising for bids for the hose contract this clause was omitted. It is thought the omission invalidates the proceedings and that it will be necessary to advertise anew. The question has been submitted to the City Attorney. If he considers the omission fatal, it will at least serve as an effective quietus to the incipient row over the division of the contract recommended last Saturday evening the commiss presented a protest against the abandonment of an avenue running through the property of Occidental College at Highland Park. At the last session of the City Council an ordinance was passed vacating the avenue, although Mrs. McDonald's protest was then on file. The protestant declared yesterday that her property would be injured if the avenue should be vacated, and she had opposed it from the outset. It appeared that the action of the Council in passing the ordinance was unwarranted, the protest being on file. The matter was taken under advisement by the board.

The board decided to recommend that the Council deny the petition asking that the city accept the gift of Eliendale Park. It appeared that the park is merely a private court 1100 feet long and only forty feet wide.

The proposed opening of New High street from Franklin to Broadway was discussed, but no action was taken. Henry Martz, owning property on Broadway between Third and Fourth streets, appeared before the board and gave his views as to the area of the assessment district to be created. The plaintiff testified that she had visited the property represented to her as belonging to Bryant and was satisfied with the deal she had consummated. She subsequently found that the land she had visued was not Bryant's property at all, but was fully two miles away from his premises upon which she held the mortgage. She said she subsequently found that Bryant's property was of no value, the soil being sandy and anything but fertile. She then demanded the return of the money loaned and met with a refusal from Bryant. She has since resorted to the courts, and the suit is now on trial.

One of the Singular Pleas in a Guardianship Case. Guardianship Case.

Judge Clark yesterday denied the petition of Mrs. Amanda D. Thompson to be appointed guardian of her two minor children. Mrs. Thompson and her husband, Archibald, have lived separately for a long time, the children residing with the father on a small plece of land near Azusa.

Mrs. Thompson stated in court that her husband was not a competent person to have charge of the children, as he lived two and a half miles from a schoolhouse, and the children were unable to attend school. Besides, she said, Mr. Thompson did not attend church, he smoked and swore a little; therefore a mother's care was needed by the children.

The father, on the other hand, demurred, holding that Mrs. Thompson made her livelihood by washings and wringing clothes, all of which did not constitute inspiring, environments in the daily life of young children growing up in the world.

Judge Clark thought the children might better stay where they were, and refused to grant the mother letters of guardianship.

Geneva Pelzer applied for a divorce from her husband, Edward W. Pelzer, principally on the ground of desertion. She added that her husband wished her to lead an unnatural life. She had married Edward in a Kansas town, where the two met in the capacity of chambermaid and lodger at a hotel. They left on a short trip, and after they had traveled a short distance the husband left her unnoticed and has not been seen since. This was three days after their marriage.

Judge Shaw was not positive as to which of the two deserted, and he denied a decree of divorce.

Mrs. Pelzer was in the same court once before upon a similar mission, but the evidence was so meager that Judge Shaw denied a divorce, pending the introduction of more substantial evidence.

The opening football game of the season between the Los Angeles Mili-tary Academy and the Occidental College elevens will be played at 3.30 this afternoon on the Military Academy gridiron. The Temple-street cars run direct to the grounds. The game promises to be a good one. RACE-TRACK NOTES.

Quite a stir was created yesterday afternoon in turf circles when it be-came known that a carload of horses had arrived at Agricultural Park from San Francisco. In the car came Searchlight, one of the stars of the pacing world. He is the three-year-old that is to meet Silkwood, Joe Wheeler and others in the free-for-all pace next Saturday. The consignment was made up of the stables of Tom Keating, By Holly and John Hum-phreys and numbered sixteen in all.

Meating has a quartette of harness performers that could earn money in any country. They include Search-light, Anaconda, Artima and Dione. The latter mare is owned by A. B. Spreckels of San Francisco. Search-light was campaigned in Montana this season, where he gained unusual lauseason where he gained unusual lau-rels, winning six out of eight starts and rels, winning six out of eight starts and establishing a new world's record for three-year-old pacers. He has won all his California starts with such ease that Keating is a little timid for fear that he may not be able to get him quite ready for a bruising race by next Saturday. the purse to be 60 per cent. of the gross captured a pair of young control terday afternon. The prisoners are Albert Lewis, colored, and Raiph Lowell, white.

Auble was riding a bicycle on Main street about 5 o'clock; when he, saw two young fellows running east on Fourth street with several men in hot pursuit. He asked one of the pursuers what the trouble was and was informed that the youths had stolen a guitar and were making their escape. Auble joined in the chase and overtook the fugitives at San Pedro street.

When they saw the officer bearing down upon them, Lowell threw the guitar in the guter and said, "The game is up." Auble made him pick up the instrument, and then, with his prisoners, started for the Police Station. At Fourth and Broadway, Lewis, the colored lad, took a revolver out of his pocket and dropped it on the pavement. The officer detected the act and recovered the gun.

Inquiry developed the fact that the guitar and revolver were the property of M. T. Williams, a colored man who works in a store at First and Main streets, and rooms at No. 320½ South Main. Williams had his windows spiked down, and carefully locked the door when he left his room about 3:30 o'clock. An hour later, Lewis and Lowell knocked a large pane of glass out of one of the windows and entered the room. They broke open Williams's trunk, took his $is guitar and revolver, and were leaving again by the window route when the occupant of an adjoining room saw them and gave the alarm. Pursuit and capture followed.

Williams says a $10 gold ring is missing from his trunk, but it was not found in the possession of the burglars. Lowell is a dope fiend, about 21 years old, and has been in trouble before. Lewis is said to be a bad egg, also. He is about 18 years old.

The case of the woman whose body was found floating in the ocean off Santa Monica Thursday was made more mysterious by yesterday's develop notoriety a few months ago as one of the burglars who broke into W. W. Watts's Figueroa-street cyclery and stole several wheels, was examined on another charge of burglary before Justice Morrison yesterday. Filkins has already been held to answer for several burglaries. The bicycle case was dismissed, but Detective Goodman is not yet done piling up complaints against the prisoner.

In the present case Filkins is charged with the burglary of S. Aufrichtig's jewelry store, on South Broadway, July 12. The examination was not concluded yesterday, and will not be until some time next week.

Filkins is growing fai on County Jall beans. His mistress, Francesca Melendez, Mary Barron, who served thirty days in the City Jail recently for petty larceny, and one or two other women call at the jail regularly to visit him. The Melendez and Barron women attended the examination yesterday and showered their smiles upon the defendant, who appears to have successfully combined the art of "mashing" with burglary successfully. The Melendez woman says she will follow Filkins to State's prison, if necessary.

Marketing Fruit.

The following article was read before the Farmers' Institute at Covina by G. W. Taylor:

It is generally recognized by all men of sound business qualifications that the value of a commodity is usually based upon its selling qualities. It is valuable if it sells readily; more valuable if it sells readily, and most valuable if it sells readily, and most valuable if it sells readily, and into the purchaser. Hence, the first step toward successfully marketing a product is to put it into such form and condition that it sells readily at the highest possible price, and that it be of such satisfactory quality that the demand for it is continuous. Having created a demand for a brand of oranges, lemons, berries or dried fruits, the next step toward successful marketing is to keep the contents of any package under a given brand always, the same as to quality and appearance (for it is not enough that the contents are good; they must look good,) and put up in the style of package demanded by the retailer. Third, we must arrange for a continuous supply if we would reap the benefit accruing from the first points. The first point is the one with which we, as growers, have the most to do directly. I need not urge upon your attention the stupidity of an intentionally dishomest pack, nor the worse than folly of a careless one. The quantity of everything we have to sell is becoming so large, and the competition so keen, that the heretofore careless methods in hancling deciduous fruits must be corrected, or the present extremely low prices will continue to prevail. California fruit-growers must learn that in years of ordinary plenty the eastern market has but little use for dirty, half-ripe, half-rotten fruits bleached with the fumes of burning sulphur into something like a decent appearance.

The time has aerived when selection and grading of fruits to be dried and burning sulphur into something like a decent appearance.

The time has arrived when selection and grading of fruits to be dried and the observance of a reasonable amount of cleanliness must be the rule, and not the exception as now.

I wish to say as one who has had ample experience, that the selected product invariably brings more money than the whole when mixed.

What shall we do with the refuse?

Well, it makes as good vinegar as the very finest that werpay freight on 2500 miles.

The second point must be considered carefully, and the fruit put up in the size and style of package demanded by the trade whose market is to be supthe trade whose market is to be supplied.

Changes in size or style of package can only be successfully made by the large organizations and should never be attempted by the individual grower. Jobbers and retailers do not take kindly to such changes unless upon a large scale, for the reason that with such an amount as an individual can furnish, by the time he has it well introduced the supply runs short, and his work goes for naught.

The third problem, the proper distribution to, and regular supply of all available markets, is one that seems nearer solution today than at any time during the last ten years, so far as citrus fruits are concerned, due wholly to the growers themselves in their efforts to free themselves from the disastrous effects of the commission system.

The exchange system, inaugurated.

some of these firms, that they, while fighting the exchange for their lives and the protection of invested capital, have risen to the occasion, and have caused heavy defections in the ranks of the exchange by honorable dealings and verys fair cash returns to the grower.

be a strictly coöperative institution. I have witnessed the rise and fall of cooperative stores, of granges, of farmers' alliances, and each and all have been wrecked upon the one rock, namely, political methods. That these men and such methods will eventually be relegated to the obscurity from whence they came, and to which they belong, is most ardently to be desired, for on this, more than any one thing, depends the cessation of the process of disintegration which has so woefully depleted the ranks of the exchange for the past two years. The saying that "coöperation in the marketing of fruit is the salvation of Callfornia producers" is trite enough, but nevertheless true; it is an absolute necessity, and if we retain so much of it as we have, and extend its usefulness, we must banish the methods now in vogue, as well as the men who inaugurate and attempt to perpetuate them.

Another source of danger to this method of marketing cranges may be mentioned, and that is the tariff on citrus fruits. Everything that makes it easier to market these fruits is a menace to the exchange system. With an easy market, more easy-buyers and better prices, the growers will become careless, and will forget the haven of refuge that has sheltered and protected them these four years past. The average grower unfortunately sees nothing but actual cash per box rerefuse that has sheltered and protected them these four years past. The average grower unfortunately sees nothing but actual cash per box received: he realizes nothing of the difficulties of the market, of the differences in cost in handling fruit one year with another, or of differences in cost due to a change in methods, and as a result frequently rewards incompetence and condemns consummate ability.

The remedy is a simple one, but oh, so hard to apply! Being a cooperative institution it should be run by the people, for the people. If you let the politicians run your business you must not blame them if they run it to suit themselves. Let every grower attend every meeting; listen, learn, suggest, and vote your own stock. Give no man your proxy unless you are sick in bed, getting married or attending your own your proxy unless you are sick in bed, getting married or attending your own funeral, and I am not sure but the two last had better be postponed till after the annual meeting.

A Case of Overproduction.

E VERY dairy farmer in the land will prick up his ears at any sort of talk that relates to the question of future price of butter or cheese. Talk to him about what he can do to decrease the cost of production, save needless waste, and secure greater economy, and a large portion of them will grow suddenly listless and indif-ferent. This is strange, but true nev-ertheless. Every teacher, lecturer or manager of a creamery that is called on to deal with farmers in a collective capacity will agree as to this feature. the disastrous effects of the commission system.

The exchange system, inaugurated four years ago, has accomplished much toward keeping the markets regularly supplied but not glutted, during the season. It has practically supplanted the commission system in handling citrus fruits; has forced fruit speculators to actually buy and pay good money for fruit or go cut of business. I have to say, in justice to at least get better knowledge, and thus get out of this know-little-and-do-less rut. Their eyes are strained all the time to look at the market to see what price countenance forty times a day and not affect it the weight of a hair.

home end of their business. Why don't they spring eagerly into the breach and stop the big leaks, and thus make a profit? It is a great mystery, and what makes it very discouraging is, that there is so great a number of just such farmers trying to keep cows, and flattering themselves they are making money at it.—[Hoard's Dairyman.

The Feeding of Poultry.

T is conceded by the majority of poultrymen that ground or soft food should form a part of the daily ration. As the digestive organs contain the it is desirable to feed the soft food at this time, for the reason that it will it is desirable to feed the soft food at this time, for the reason that it will be digested and assimilated quicker than the whole grain. A mixture of equal parts, by weight, of corn and oats, ground, added to an equal weight of wheat bran and fine middlings, makes a good morning food if mixed with milk or water, thoroughly wet without being sloppy. If the mixture is inclined to be sticky the proportion of bran should be increased. A little linseed meal will improve the mixture, particularly for hens during the molting period, or for chickens when they are growing feathers. If prepared meat scraps or animal meal is to be fed it should be mixed with this soft food in proportion of about one pound to twenty-five hens. It will be necessary to feed this food in troughs to avoid soiling before it is consumed. This grain' ration should consist largely of whole wheat, some oats, and perhaps a little cracked corn. This should be scattered in the litter, which should always cover the floor of the poultry-house. It is necessary to have the floor of the poultry-house covered with a litter of some kind to insure should be scattered in the litter, which should always cover the floor of the poultry-house. It is necessary to have the floor of the poultry-house covered with a litter of some kind to insure cleanliness. Straw, chaff, buckwheat hulls, cut cornstalks, all make excellent litters. The object of scattering the grain in this litter is to give the fowls exercise. All breeds of fowls that are noted for egg production are active, nervous, and like to be continually at work. How to keep them busy is a problem not easily solved. Feeding the grain as described will go a long way toward providing exercise. If the fowls are fed three times a day they should not be fed all they will eat at noon. Make them find every kernel. At night, just before going on the perches, they should have all they will eat up clean. At no time should mature fowls be fed more than they can eat. Keep them always active—always looking for another kernel of grain.—[Coleman's Rural World.

DR. WONG HIM, 831 South Hope St.,

Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sir:—in justice to you and for the benefit of others, I wish to make a statement of my case. I was afflicted with ulceration of the rectum and hemorrhage of the bowels. I was treated by two good doctors until I lost 32 pounds of flesh and became so weak from loss of blood that I was unable to attend to business. I then commenced doctoring with Dr. Wong Him. Bleeding stopped and I commenced to improve with the first dose of medicine, and at the end of four months I had regained my lost flesh and health, and today am well and sound. In Dr. Wong Him's honesty, integrity and ability to cure any disease that he says he can cure I bave unbounded confidence and faith, and would recommend him to all needing a doctor. Yours truly

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,

TAXING STOCKS AND BONDS.
The question of the taxation of securities of various kinds is going to be a ous one for investors before long. question is now being discussed in y York, where the Sun of that city

In this State, at present, the bonds of municipal corporations are in most ably all of them will in time be made so. Stocks of corporations which pay taxes on their capital are also, by the law as it stands in this State, exempt, and this is an advantage which leased ilines, railroad stocks, now have over bonds, but in Ohio and elsewhere the exemption is not allowed. If our New York tax law were rigorously enforced as the authorities of some countries are enforcing it, the holder of a 3½ per cent, railroad bond would have to pay taxes of 2.1 per cent, on the principal, so that his income would be reduced to little more than 1 per cent. In the countries adjacent to ours the rate of taxation is still higher, and the entire 3½ per cent, might in some cases be taken by the tax collector, leaving the investor nothing. Hitherto the working of the law has been mitigated by the exercise of an unauthorized discretion on the part of assessors, but if they are to be driven into discharging their full duty, either the rate of interest will have to rise to cover the taxes, or else investors will have to seek a residence where a more liberal policy prevalls. The wisest thing would be for the Legislature to exempt personalty and tax real estate exclusively. The tax, in, that event, would be paid by tenants as part of their rent, in proportion to its amount, and would thus be distributed equitably. Owners occupying their own houses and farms might pay a little more than they are paying now, but they would be compensated by the attraction to this State of wealthy citizens now residing out of it, and by the enhancement of the lines, railroad stocks, now have over bonds, but in Ohio and elsewhere the of wealthy citizens now residing out of it, and by the enhancement of the value of their property which would result therefrom."

BOGUS OLIVE OILS. Referring to an article in this department, which appeared recently, commenting upon a report of the city chemist of San a report of the city chemist of San Francisco, on the character of so-called olive oils offered for sale in that city, Dr. T. C. Stockton of San Diego writing to The Times, draws attention to the fact that any oil not pure olive oil, sold under or by the name of olive oil, is by the laws of California, "adulterated olive oil." He quotes the following section from an act of the California Legislature, approved March 26, 1895: "Section 3. Any article shall be deemed to be adulterated within the meaning of this act.
"In case of drugs: (1) If when sold under or by a name recognized in the United States Pharmacopoeia, it differs from the standard of strength, quality or purity laid down there in.
"In case of food: (1) If any substance or substances have been mixed with it, so as to lower or depreciate, or injuriously affect its quality, strength, or purity. (2) If any inferior or cheaper substance or substances have been substituted wholly or in part for it.

If it is an imitation of, or is sold under the name of another article."

No intelligent, sane physician who Francisco, on the character of so-called tation of, or is sold under the name of another article."

No intelligent, sane physician who desired the nutritive, relaxing or bland effect of olive oil would for an instant think of substituting mustard or other wegetable oil instead.

Whether all these vegetable oils are wholesome for food is not for me to say, but they certainly should not be sold under fraudulent misrepresentation or designation. All articles of food should be labeled and sold under their proper names, as by law made and provided. Olive-growers do not object to the sale of other vegetable oils, but they, as well as all good citizens, condemn the fraudulent practice of bottling, labeling and selling inferior and cheaper oils under the name of olive oil.

The Times does not for a moment

The Times does not for a moment maintain that there is any excuse for parties who sell oils, other than olive oil, under the name of olive oil. What The Times desired to emphasize was that there are other pure vegetable oils which are of themselves not unwholesome, although perhaps not so desirable or valuable as the oil of the olive. Such, for instance, as oil from Sunflower seed, peanuts, cotton seed and mustard seed. As The Times said, it is impossible for the general public to consume olive oil in liberal quantities, while the price remains as high as at present, and as vegetable oil is a wholesome and desirable addition to the daily bill of fare, it would be well if the public could obtain a plentiful supply of such vegetable oils, but they should always be sold under their proper name. proper name.

In the Southern States cotton seed oil is now largely consumed by the public. It was recently sold in bulk at about 30 cents or 35 cents a gallon. Here in California it is sold in small bottles at from 15 to 25 cents per bottle under the name of olive oil.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

DECIDUOUS | FRUIT-GROWER'S CONVENTION. As already mentioned in The Times, a meeting of deciduous fruit growers of Southern California fruit growers of Southern California has been called for the 20th of this month, in the Chamber of Commerce building. It is suggested that it would be a good idea for the fruit growers to bring with them samples of dried fruits, so as to show the various sys-tems of drying and packing that have been adopted by the growers. In this way it is possible that a good many valuable points might be brought out.

THE FRUIT EXCHANGES. A. H. Nattager has been reflected president of the Southern California Fruit Exchange, and F. Q. Story has been again chosen vice-president. Mr. Naftzger has gone East to appoint new agencies, and gather information that will be of value to the citrus-fruit growers of Southern California. The coming crop promises to be by far the growers of Southern California. The coming crop promises to be by far the largest that the exchange has ever bandled.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Shares and Money.

[ANSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The bulls were apparently impressed with a belief at the opening of the stock market today that the heginning of the force of the import movement in gold would effect a turn in the market and send prices upward again, after the long-sustained reaction. Their confidence was dissipated very soon after noon, and the market became almost lifeless. Business was of the lightest possible description, and functuations were arrow and unimportant, many prominent focks being neglected. Sales for the day for all stocks were only 250,000 shares. The bears have apparently come to the end of their campaign, and there is not a large buying contingent to take stocks, even at the low lovel. The market seems, in fact, to have swung to a standatill. The announcements today of gold engagements for import footed up a total of $6,350,000, and if this amount all but $1,500,000 comes from London. Today's engagement of $1,500,000 in Paris is the first to come from that center of the 'otal movement,' which now foots up $3,150,000. This is entirely at variance with all the prophecies made by the financial authorities, who have foretold that London could easily shift the demand for the gold from the United States upon Faris. London has apparently viewed with great equanimity the increasing demand upon its gold reserves. The Bank of England has gone on expanding its loan in the face of the troublesome drain upon its rold, and no change was made on Thursday in its rate of discount. The open market discount in London has remained about steady up to today, when it hardened slightly, and the same thing was true in Paris in response to the gold engagements. The effect in New York while it was almost unappreciable on the stock market, was perceptible in the money stock market, was perceptible in the money Shares and Money. Bradstreet's Review.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say the distribution of general merchandise in the Central West and Northwest is further checked, owing to the prolonged drought in Kentucky. Illinois and Kanasa, portions of Missouri, Nebraska, lowa, Alinnes so and the La Kepott serious damage in tanasa and parts of Nebraska and towa, where early-planted wheat is up budding out that planted later is not likely to sprout. Fail plowing is now impossible. Six weeks without rain has dried up pastures and compeled farmers to feed stock. Manufacturing industries throughout the West, particularly iron and steel, continue active, and there is sent increasing fendency on the part of interior merchants to remit promptly. While the volume of trade has decreased at Chicago, it is a shead of the like record in recent years. There is an improvement in business in the South, Alabama having raised the quarant of the continue to hold cotton, which healys collections. Higher prices this week are reported for cotton, which has been declining for the stock market today and seed, compared with 489,000 the six at the face of the troubles of the United States and Canada this week, and the same last week, but compared with 489,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and as compared with 306, the Barst week of totoner, 183, 183,000 the part of the united States and Canada this week, show a heavy falling-off, asspregating only 4.858,641 bushels, against 5.88,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.224,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.224,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.224,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.234,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.234,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.234,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.234,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.234,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.234,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.234,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.234,000 bushels in the week a year ago, and 2.234,000 bushels in the years of support from the larger interests of the financial and speculative world; have been the principal factors in the week's stock market. The result has been a narrow and, at times, a very dull speculation, with irregular declines in the greater part of the list, though in only a few cases, notably Chicago Gas, did the decline assume any serious proportions. The volume of transactions has fallen off in a marked degree, and no less significant is the changed character of the trading itself. Commission houses have been comparatively inactive, and the smaller room traders have made the market for the greater part of the week. Foreign prices are lower, however, selling was apparent and causing brief and in the main unimportant rallies when they began to cover their own shorts. Gold importations have begun, apparently without anything but natural causes behind them, and in the opinion of the authorities, are likely to attain a large volume and to continue at intervals for the remainder of the year. Rallroad earnings continue to make a very handsome showing, those of the New York Central for September being the largest for any month in the list tory of the company. Chicago receipts were 202 cars. Primary market receipts were 1.573.000 bushels, against 1,169.000 bushels a year ago. New York reported export engagements of 38 boat loads. The Michigan crop reports showed a total yield of 24,925.000 bushels wheat this year, against 15,720.000 bushels wheat this year, against 15,720.000 last year. This news apparently had as little influence as did the Liverpool market. An important fact concerning the Hungarian wheat crop was entirely lost. Beerbohm figures 50,000,000 bushels, against 87,000,000 bushels as his previous estimate, and against 48,000.000 as the crop last year. The Liverpool weakness was explained by the fact that there had been hedging sales there against the No. 2 spring wheat recently sent from Chicago. It is expected that the visible supply satement Monday will show an increase of 1,500,000 bushels, against 2,300,000 increa

PASADENA, Oct. 8.—[Regular Correspondence.] A most disagreeable odor arises from the culverts at East Colorado street and Raymond avenue, and at the Santa Fé crossing on East Colorado street. On the corner of Raymond avenue and Colorado street very many people are accustomed to stand and wait for the Altadena cars, and business men in the vicinity have of late complained of the stench. Yesterday a driver of a public carriage having a stand at the corner was taken sick, and the physicians pronounce his sickness as typhoid fever. The culvert has not been flushed all summer, and one of the employés of the street department says no blame can be attached to the department, as the culverts at Fair Oaks are flushed every week, and those at Raymond avenue could be but for the fact that one of the directors of the Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company forbade the street department employées of the Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company forbade the street department employées of the Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company forbade the street department employées to flush the culverts at the Santa Fé crossing, and since then they have not done so. The pany forbade the street department employes to flush the culverts at the Santa Fé crossing, and since then they have not done so. The case of typhold fever above referred to is claimed to be due to the stench from the culvert. The Street Superintendent, when his attention was called to the unavory odor today, ordered the culverts flushed.

Fred Viall was called in Justice Merriam's court this morning to plead to the charge of disturbing the peace and pleaded guilty. His lawyer made a plea for leniency and accordingly the court imposed a fine of $25, or the same number of days in jail. Dr. George Viall of North Orange Grové avenue, father of the young man, paid the fine. On the charge of stealing a harness from a Mr. Burgess at Alhambra, young Viall pleaded not guilty, and his trial was set for next Friday at 10 o'clock.

Leonidas Coralles, who was jointly charged with Viall with stealing the harness, pleaded not guilty, but subsequently changed the guilty, and his trial was set for next Friday at 10 o'clock.

Leonidas Coralles, who was jointly charged with Viall with stealing the harness, pleaded not guilty, and was sentenced to thirty days in jail. Through an interpreter Coralles claimed that young Viall said he lived at the house of Mr. Burgess and wanted to get a harness to take in to his brother in Los Angeles, and that Viall went into the barn and came out with the harness, but that he, Coralles, held the horse. The disturbing-the-peace charge was the result of Viall and Coralles getting intoxicated and the former placing a revolver in the faces of S. M. Hawley and another party and definanding they drink from a bottle he held in his other hand.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 8.—[Regular Correspondence.] Andrew Clancy, recently released from the County Jail, where he served a sentence of twenty days for stealing tools from a building on Union street, was found dead Thursday evening on Newton avenue, lying face down in the dust. When found by Mrs. Nasgar of Twenty-fourth street, his body was still warm. Close by him was a onegallon lard can containing a small quantity of wine.

Clancy has been considered rather weak minded for some time, and has attempted several times to commit suicide. It is believed that while helplessly intoxicated Clancy fell upon the ground with his face in the dust and smothered to death. The deceased has one relative in this portion of the country, his mother, and she is an inmate of the County Hospital.

THE ADAMS RETURNS.

The United States training ship Alams, which left this port a few days ago for Mazatlan, returned unexpectedly yesterday on account of the serious illness of Surgeon Stone. The Mazatlan trip as a result has been abandoned, and the ship, after remaining here about two weeks, will go direct to Magdalena Bay for drill practice, and then to Honolulu. This ship has aboard eighty boys between the ages of 14 and 17 years, who are being trained for naval service. While the Adams was leaving the bay a few days ago the officers report that one of the boys jumped overboard and attempted to swim ashore, but when a short distance from land he gave out and called for help. A boat was quickly lowered and the youngster was brought safely aboard, since which time he has been one of the best lads in the crew.

THE COUNCIL'S SPECIAL MEETING.

he has been one of the best lads in the crew.

THE COUNCIL'S SPECIAL MEETING. A special meeting of the Common Council was held Thursday evening for the purpose of determining upon the location of the garbage crematory, but the meeting adjourned without its object being accomplished. A large delegation of residents from the Seventh and Eighth Wards was present, and they made themselves heard in a way that seemed effective with the members of the municipal body politic.

Both branches of the Council resolved themselves into a committee of the whole to hear the argument and evidence that was to be produced, and then the City Attorney was called upon to give the legal status of the muddle. The Council does not appear to want to take the responsibility of selecting a site for the crematory, and the residents of the Seventh and Eighth wards are bringing such pressure to bear upon them that they feel inclined to compel the crematory company to remove the building from where it is now being located. This cannot be done without the consent of the company, and it refuses to move unless paid damages to the extent of $3000. This amount of money the Council avers cannot be spared for this purpose, from the municipal funds, and the Seventh and Eighth ward spende declare they will not permit themselves to be robbed to any such unreasonable extent; that they prefer to carry the war into the courts. The question finally narrowed down to the proposition as to whether or not the city would live up to its proposition or annul it. Some thought the crematory company could probably be paid a sufficient sum so that its contract could be withdrawn entirely, and the project of erecting a garbage crematory abandoned altogether. A committee was finally appointed, consisting of Messrs. Dodson, James and Willing to accept an annulment of the contract, but until that is done they want some assurance that the company will not so ahead and complete the building. Accordingly another mass meeting was called at Noble's Hall for this evening to fu Mattingley bases his appeal on the ground that the decision was rendered on insufficient evidence.

TROUBLE OVER A TOLL, ROAD.

An amended complaint was filed today in the case of W. A. Vale, administrator of the estate of M. Vale, deceased, M. W. Vale, and N. A. Vale vs. the Arrowhead Reservoir Company. The defendant company has a toll road running over the San Bernardino Mountains in the north end of the valley, and toil road running over the San Berhardino Mountains in the north end of the valley, and terminating in Little Bear Valley. The road crosses the Vale.place, in Waterman Cafion, and when Vale gave the toil road company a right-of-way across his property, it was done, he alleges, on the understanding that he and his family and heirs should be permitted to journey to and fre over the San Bernardino end of the toil road without paying toil. The company insists that the Vales should pay toil, and already has run up a bill of about $150 against them. The suit is brought to have the defendance of the paying to the property of the Valeshous them, while an additional $500, with the costs of suit, are asked for to compensate for the amount of harass that has already been inflicted upon them.

will answer for his alleged abuse of his better half in the Police Court at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Half an hour later James Temple will have a hearing on the charge of battery, preferred by his wife. Temple is one of the most vicious and worthless fellows the police ever had to deal with. His wife belongs to the Salvation Army and conducts the Lulu Shelter on San Pedro street. Although nearly dead with dropsy she has to work to make a living for herself, husband and three children. The husband rewards her by beating her and the children and spending all the money he can get hold of for drink. He formerly belonged to the Salvation Army himself, but was drummed out because of his vicious habits.

Several months ago Temple was in court for wife beating. He professed great penitence then and promised to Los Angeles, drunk as usual. He helped to eat a dinner that his wife had prepared in celebration of his return, then shied the dishes and teakettle at her head. He wound up by cutting a lot of bedding into ribbons, then walked off with the best blankets in the house, which he tried to pawn for more drinks. For this reprehensible conduct he was arrested yesterday by Deputy Constable Mugnemi.

SAN PEDRO INQUEST.

WILLIAM ROCHE SHOT BY SAVAGE "WITH MURDEROUS INTENT."

Coroner's Jury Pinally Reaches This Verdict-Witnesses Relate the Circumstances of the Trap-edy-Testimony Indicating That the Killing Was Premeditated.

The evidence submitted at the Cor-oner's inquest held in San Pedro yes-terday in the case of the death of Wil-liam Roche, who was killed by Patrick Ham Roche, who was kined by father to H. Savage, a tailor, was damaging to the latter, who has a charge of murder standing against him, but some points which may be valuable in his defense which may be valuable in his defense were developed.

J. M. Perry testified to having seen young Roche at Savage's place the night before the shooting. Roche was mlaying on a musical instrument.

E. J. Roche, the father of the young man who was killed, awore that his son said shortly before the tragedy that he was going swimming with Savage. After the shooting, the young man said he went to Savage's place to accompany him for that purpose. He was tolking with Thomas McNerney when arvage called him out to the rear and aid: "I'm soing to plunk you." Witness also toid how, a few hours before the shooting, Savage said he (Savage) was drunk the night before, and he hamed young Roche for not staying with him while in that condition.

Thomas McNerney corroborated the statement about young Roche being with him when Savage called young Roche away a few minutes before the shooting. Witness would not say absolutely that it was Savage, but was almost certain that it was. Shortly before the Tagedy witness heard a conversation participated in by Thomas Solden, young Roche and Savage, seiden apoke of having lost some arrosey the previous night, the money acks you about it, you tell them how it is."

Dr. W. A. Weidon gave a technical description of the autopsy, and said that at the time of young Roche's antemortem statement, which was made in his presence, Roche was undoubtedly in a mental condition to intelligently describe what had happened. Witness said Savage had years ago been a morphine and cocaine fiend, and told of a statement Savage made to him after the tragedy. Savage said he must have been "dopped" the night before. Savage said he called young Roche out, intending to "plug" him merely to frighten him, but young Roche out, intending to "plug" him merely to frighten him, but young Roche raised his hand to strike, and then he (Savage) drew his pistor and shot, him.

The jury, after a few minutes' deliberation, rendered a verdict finding marely that death was caused be a "gunshot wound inflicted by Pat Save age."

The Coroner declined to approve this finding, and asked the jury to think it over again. That body added to its verdict the words, "with nurderous intent," and the verdict was then approved by the Coroner.

The course of the builet after passing through Roche's body, had not been determined at the inquest, and it required a tedicus search to learn the fact. Examination all about the rear porch of Savage's place, where the killing was done, failed to discious any mark of the leaden ball. Isolais of rubbish were overhauled without success. The search was extended to an old couch standing on end and resting against another building about twenty-five feet from Savage's rear door. A pleee of wood in this couch was found to have been spintered by a builet, and the important bit of lead was found by exploring a more of grass and rubbish underneath.

Savage was arraigned before Justice Downing on a murder charge. Therefore
